

It is with great regret I bring you news of the murder of Antonio Bitterman, a man I consider one of the finest investigative journalists I have ever met. When most were too scared to confront the hard issues, Bitterman was fearless and never said no to a big story.

THE KEY SUSPECTS

Whilst Bitterman has offended many recently, police have narrowed the case to 3

Tony Miles - There has been bad blood between the two for quite a while, at the time of publication Tony was unavailable for comment however he was seen leaving his house in disguise.

Brenton Davies - So traumatised by the gazette article he burnt every blue piece of clothing he had. Not much is known about Brenton, but being a South Australian certainly doesn't bode well for

Luke Gill - Gilly is obsessed by Bitterman and the way he dismissed him all those years ago. Gilly plays cricket in a crime infested suburb (Burwood) and I wouldn't be suprised if he's the killer

BITTERMAN DEAD AT 28

Bitterman was found in the early hours, shot dead. The sadistic monster had the audacity to strip him, waxed him and place him in his personal solarium

GOVEYS TRIVIA & LOOKALIKES

- 1) True or False all of George Foremans sons (5) are named George?
 - 2) List the Australian Capital Cities in order of population (ACT optional)
 - 3) What was the Spanish club Fernando Torres played for before joining Liverpool?
 - 4) What is Mark Waughs Highest Test score 133, 153, 173?
 - 5) Who were the 5 wisden cricketers of the 20th Century
- Answer all 5 correctly and Govey will buy you a Free Beer

PANTHER LOOKALIKES by Daryl Gove

The Gazette promises to catch the killer.

This edition is dedicated to finding the muderer and will be listing the key suspects and pointing the finger at anyone with a motive.

PANTHER TWEETS

Caity Bitterman - Dislikes: Losing Bitterman
Likes: More closet space & is now able to drink full cream milk

Kosta - Congratulations to Porch Monkeys for winning the flag and being the only mens team in the mixed gender indoor comp

AzzaEvog@NickKann - Thanks for running me out last week!

HUMP OF THE YEAR - Justin Dessent

Mark McNamara, for having an Up n Go at tea (on a 40degree day)then nearly died on the field with heat exhaustion

Dougy Potts, for telling everyone he is the worlds greatest fielder and dropping every catch hit to him.

Matthew Knott, for doing a heart muscle at training when running a gentle single with the Rust Dawg

Anthony Schaeppman, for just being a hump
Winner

Cameron Dickson, for thinking and telling everyone the 3s were going to win a flag and choking (also passing out on Maccas couch after the prelim final)

The Verdict by Antonio Bitterman (From the Grave)

NOBODY was sorry to see the back of the arrogant one gurney when he announced he was not playing in the last match of the season. Given how much undisguised bad feeling there was between the team and Matthew Gurney the last time he missed a game, it is no surprise the 1s dressing room has had little or nothing to say by way of criticism of their old team mate as it is more a relief to have him gone. Specialist batsmen Lawrence Lathouras (averages 1.33), who was the nominated media spokesman for the day on the basis of his welcome return to the 1s on Saturday, tried to be positive on one hand - but couldn't resist a swipe with the other. He accused him of "trying to find any excuse for his poor season at the moment which includes his horrific batting ability", and suggested they did not always see eye to eye. He also said small things were getting to him like new opening bowling sensation A Schaeppman "which has obviously affected his game as his average is now above his fellow opener and his ego is not what is used to be". Lathouras was responding to questions about the controversial exit from Gurney-the-exit incident involving Matthew, who walked out on the team because he didn't have a heart big enough to finish off a poor season along with his ex-team mates. Lathouras was simply disgusted and refused to answer any questions. Boroodara captain Robbie Ross said that it's an extreme disappointment to see any player walk out on a team that has so many battle wounds from the long season. However, I don't think they missed him as they showed plenty of heart and ability in what was a very testing day in the heat. If I was a member of NBCCC I would send him packing to join the likes of K Baker who has recently left to start up a hyperbaric chamber export business. "As we can see, the desperation of Gurney this summer in which he was trying to get something out of it ... has simply not gone to his favour." In the end he chose to work on his tan at Portsea and crashed his sisters hens day instead of facing his enemy on the battle field and left his team mates to do all the work in what was an honourable display. In a second controversy, NBCCC star Marcus Hyde was riled when the ECA ruled him out of contention for the bowling award after an investigation into his bowling technique. After speaking directly with ECA umpire of the decade Dennis Day, he stated that his technique just didn't look normal and it resembled something that a blind limbless chimpanzee would produce. "You've got two umpires each week, surely they know what a correct technique looks like," Marcus said. "If you appeal and it's given out it has to count towards my wicket tally and being robbed of all my wickets for cheating allegations is outrageous," Marcus said. "We've seen it a couple of times this year when Marcus has looked a bit odd in his deliveries but to think he would cheat is not in his nature," I know he's unorthodox both on the field and off the field but this is truly a sad day to see such a talent exposed for cheating," said Dale Rogers "Not once has any NBCCC player cheated besides C Dickson in the season 1990-2012. The club has truly be tarnished this year by the whinging antics from K Baker, the 11 players in the 3rd going down to heat stroke, M gurney walking out on his team because he couldn't handle the pressure and the cheat that is Marcus Hyde. "Obviously it is affecting the club and the playing groups." "They'll find their way eventually and I hope that the club will move on quickly and focus on their future success." It has been a pleasure to bring you breaking and 100% accurate news throughout the season

Antonio Bitterman